

KATHERINE BALDIGA COFFMAN

Ohio State University

<https://sites.google.com/site/kbaldigacoffman/>

baldiga.1@osu.edu

508-259-1896

Education

B.A., Mathematics and Economics, Williams College, Summa Cum Laude, June 2007

Ph.D., Economics, Harvard University, May 2012

Thesis Title: Essays in Microeconomic Theory and Experimental Economics

Academic Employment

Assistant Professor, Department of Economics, Ohio State University, 2012 - present

Research Interests

Microeconomic theory, Social choice, Experimental economics, Gender and economics

Publications

Baldiga, K.A. and J.R. Green, 2013, Assent-maximizing social choice. Social Choice and Welfare, Vol. 40, Iss. 2, pp. 439-460.

Baldiga, K.A. Gender differences in willingness to guess. Forthcoming in Management Science.

Working Papers

Eliciting Expertise: Why Gender and Gender Stereotypes Matter, Even in the Absence of Discrimination (under review at the Quarterly Journal of Economics)

Privacy is Not Enough: The Size of the LGBT Population and the Magnitude of Anti-Gay Sentiment are Substantially Underestimated, joint with Lucas C. Coffman and Keith M. Marzilli Ericson (under review at the American Economic Review)

Representative Democracy and the Implementation of Majority-Preferred Alternatives (under review at Economic Theory)

Closing the Gender Gap in Willingness to Guess, work in progress

Gender Differences in the Perceived Value of Job Training, joint with Melissa Adelman, work in progress

Grants, Honors, Scholarships, and Fellowships

October 2013 Ohio State Social and Behavioral Sciences International Travel Grant

May 2013 Ohio State Academic Enrichment Competition winner for development of new honors course

Department Service

Undergraduate Studies Committee, Fall 2012 - present

Teaching and Mentorship

Faculty Mentor, Ohio State Summer Research Opportunities Program,
Summer 2013